Jonathan's Victory

Saul was a son of a year in his reigning (15722) when he blew the trumpet. 1Sam. 13:1-3. This was the jubilee trumpet. Also, Saul's reign was 40 years because, A son of forty years was Ish-bosheth son of Saul in his reign over Israel. 1Sam. 2:10. This cipher is like the Ahaziah cipher and the Jehoiachin cipher, and also like the 390 year cipher and the 35th year of Asa cipher.

The passages 1 Sam. 13:1 and 2 Sam. 2:10 are coordinated with the same grammar and syntax to give us a distance measure in the respective reigns of Saul and Ish-bosheth.

A Sha'arim (two-gates) is probably the archaeological site of Kirbet Qeiyafa. When David killed Goliath, the Philistine army fled past this Judean fortress falling dead in the way of Sha'arim (1 Samuel 17:52). The fortress was only used for a short time (cf. 1 Chronicles 4:27-31). Carbon 14 dates of this site agree with the chronology, so long as we do not apply Bayesian adjustments to the C14 dates based on the low chronology of Thiele.

David first won the hearts of Israel by slaying Goliath. Forty years later Absalom stole their hearts from him. The placement of this sub-chronology is not exactly known. However, David was a lad just under military age, say 16-19 years old. Here I have guessed he was 18. So the sub-chronology is within a few years.

David misses new moon feast, Thu Apr 13 and Fri Apr 14; flees Sabbath Apr 15; receives bread 3 Aviv. 1069 BC, next page. Astronomical Synchronism.
